TO CONVERT DAY
INTO LOVE FEAST

Rush County Republicans Decide to Hold Meeting in Coliseum on Even of "Sherman Day."

MANY STATESMEN ARE COMING

Joseph G. Cannon, Former Speaker,
and Former Vice-President
Fairbanks Will be Here.

OF NATIONAL PROMINENCE

Planned to Make it Biggest Gathering Ever Held in State Outside of Indianapolis.

Mention has been made previously, somewhat indefinitely, however, of a political meeting which will be held on the evening of "Sherman day," Tuesday, October tenth. It has been definitely settled that the day's celebration shall be converted into a big Republican love feast in the evening. It will be held in the coliseum and will be attended by all of the big Republicans from all parts of the State as well as by Republicans who have attained a national reputation.

Invitations have been issued and replies are coming in from every part of the State that Republicans will come here in swarms. It is the plan of the promoters of the meeting to make it the biggest Republican gathering that was ever held in Indiana outside of Indianapolis.

It is likely that the following Republicans of national reputation will be present for the event: Joseph G. Cannon of Danville, Ill., former speaker of the National House of Representatives; James Hemenway, of Boonville, Ind., former United States Senator from Indiana; Vice-President James S. Sherman; Lew Shank, mayor of Indianapolis; Charles W. Fairbanks of Indianapolis, former vice-president; W. O. Barnard of New Castle, former congressman from the Sixth district, and a number of other members of the G. O. P.

It is practically assured that all of these men will be present for the love feast. All of the Republican congressional candidates in the last campaign, besides a number of former congressmen from Indiana have been invited and a good majority of them will attend. The present State chairman of the Republican party together with former State chairmen have been asked here for the event and the news is that a number of them will attend. The district chairmen from all over Indiana are included in the invitation. In short the political workers from the four corners of the State have been urged to come and there is every reason to believe that at least one thousand Republicans from out of the city will be here.

Verne W. Norris, county chairman of the Republican party is chairman of the committee which will have charge of the arrangements for the meeting. He has named the following members of the committee: John Kiplinger, A. L. Riggs, Will C. McCollin, Ed Crosby, Thomas M. Green, James V. Young, Will M. Bliss, Will M. Sparks, Claude Cambern, Otto E. Humes, Will M. Frazee, Will P. Jay, Harry Wyatt and Roy Harold. The committee will meet in the clerk's office Tuesday morning at nine o'clock.

The committee will prepare for the entertainment of the crowd. The kind of refreshments which will be served at the love feast at the coliseum will be decided upon and music and other things will be arranged for. The news from all over the Sixth

RUSH COUNTY MEN
WIN AT EATON, OHIO

Horrie Brooks and Clyde Nebro Each Take Race and Lindsay and Christman Inside Money.

TRACK WAS EXTREMELY HEAVY

Thursday at the Eaton, Ohio, fair might have been called Rush county day, for Rushville horses and drivers were quite in evidence and also inside the money. The track was extremely heavy, which accounted for the slow time. Clyde Nebro was the first Rushville man who broke into the winning column. Nebro won the 2:16 pace with Martin Kelley over a field of eight starters. The best time was 2:29 1/4, made in the first heat. Horrie Brooks drove John D. to first money in the 2:11 pace and J. C. Christman took third money in the same race with J. P. Patchen. The best time was 2:16 3/4. Frank Lindsay took third money with James W. in the 2:18 trot. The purses in all of the races were for $300.

WILL GO TO MILROY
THURSDAY NIGHT

Merchants Desire Automobile Owners
to Decorate Machines in Horse Show Colors and Make Trip.

EXPECT TO SEND A BIG CROWD

At the close of the "Sherman day" committee meeting last night it was decided that the Rushville merchants and citizens should go to the Milroy Fall Festival on Thursday night. It is the desire of the merchants that everyone, who has an automobile to decorate the machine in the horse show colors, green and white, and make the trip. Milroy sent 19 automobiles here last Saturday night and it is expected that this city will send at least 35 machines there on next Thursday. While in Milroy that night "Sherman day" and the horse show will be advertised. The "Sherman day" committee and the association will meet Wednesday night, October 4.

PLAN HOME COMING.

All former residents of Milroy living in Rushville are planning a home coming to be held in Milroy October 5, during the fall festival there. A meeting will be held with Mrs. T. W. Betker Monday evening to make arrangements for the trip. Dinners and suppers will be taken.

The case of Elijah Shields against Ina L. Toloday on a note and to enforce vendor's lien was dismissed in court today on the plaintiff's motion and the costs adjudge against the defendant.

BANDS AND FLAGS
TO ABOUND THEN

Committees Meet in Court House and Complete Final Details For
"Sherman Day," Oct. 10.

THE CHAIRMEN MAKE REPORTS

Anthony Schrichte, President of the Merchants Association Will Preside and Welcome Guests.

"Sherman day" plans were practically completed at the meeting of the various committees in the court house after the factory meeting there last night. Arrangements were made to advertise the day all over this and adjoining counties, to decorate the city in red, white and blue and to entertain the national celebrities during their stay in this city.

Bert Mullin, as chairman of the committee on arrangements reported a conference with James E. Watson and said that the local statesman had very willingly consented to loan his distinguished guest to Rushville until six o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Mullin pointed out that bands would be needed and that the city should be decorated "to the limit," but that the committee on arrangements had done nothing definite, intending to wait on the suggestions of the committees meeting as a whole.

Mr. Mullin reported that Claude Cambern and Will Frazee of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company would furnish a special car on the traction line to haul the reception committee to Indianapolis and escort the vice-president and Senator Kern back to this city and would donate ten dollars to assist in paying the transportation for the committee. It was pointed out that several members of the committee would willingly pay their own transportation and that there would only be a few members of the committee whose fare it would be necessary to pay. Frank Wolcott suggested that if there should be any shortage after the ten dollars was used up that the association pay it out of its general fund.

The chairman of the arrangements committee named the price which the Rushville band had asked to play on "Sherman day" and said that he thought the sum would be made much less if the band was employed to play at the coliseum in the evening. He thought that two bands should be employed, and reported that he had already conferred with the Arlington band. It was practically decided before the close of the meeting that

COMMITTEE TO MEET COUNCIL

Representative Body of Men Will Confer With City "Dads" on Fire Protection Question.

GATES SEXTON IS CHAIRMAN

Merchants and Citizens Decide on Definite Plan of Action—Meeting
Monday Morning.

The following committee was appointed by Pres. Schrichte to wait upon the city council in an effort to get water for fire protection for the Rushville Furniture Company; Gates Sexton, F. E. Wolcott, J. H. Gillespie, T. W. Betker, B. F. Miller, J. M. Gwinn, Owen L. Carr, Dr. D. H. Dean, Russell Casady, Jack Knecht, J. B. Schrichte, II, C. Flint, John Gantner, G. P. Hunt, Floyd Hogsett, Wilfred Grindle, Ell Jones, Walter Peters, George Helm, Henry Schattner, Ralph Payne, John Wallace, Lew Oneal, Ben Cox and Willard Amos.

The meeting last night of the Merchants Association and citizens of Rushville was attended by a crowd of about one hundred and plans were put under way as to see what could be done with the city council to get fire protection for the Rushville Furniture Company. A definite plan of action was decided upon and that is to have a committee of twenty-five representative men of the city meet with the council and discuss the subject.

Anthony Schrichte, president of the Merchants Association, at the opening of the meeting stated that he wished to correct the impression that many had in regard to the meeting. He said that the meeting was not an indignation meeting as was advertised yesterday by hand bills circulated over the city. "I do not want the people to ensure the merchants for calling this an indignation meeting, for those bills were not authorized by the association and we are not indignant," said Mr. Schrichte. It was explained that the hand bills were passed out so as to get a crowd and from the large number present they had the desired result.

The president of the association in asking for an expression of opinions from those present as to the best method to use in getting the council to furnish fire protection for the factory said: "Most cities not only give

LOST IN OWN COMMUNITY

Mrs. Frank Earnest Had to be Shown
Way Home.

Strange things will happen in the best regulated families. Mrs. Frank Earnest while returning from taking her husband to his work, two miles north of Gwynneville, became lost and drove until nearly noon, when she met, as she thought a stranger, and asked the way to Gwynneville. He pointed across the fields about one-half mile to town, and told her that was the place. The stranger proved to be her neighbor, Robert Ball. Mr. Earnest is going to walk to his work hereafter.

LINEMAN INJURED
IN FALL FROM POLE

Ernest Eider, Employed by I. & C.
Traction Company, Sustained
Dislocated Hip, and Bruises.

WAS REMOVED TO THIS CITY

Ernest Eider, a lineman employed by the Indianapolis and Cincinnati traction company was severely injured shortly after noon today in a fall from a pole. The accident happened three-quarters of a mile west of Fountaintown, and was caused by Eider coming in contact with a short circuit which knocked him from the pole.

Eider fell about thirty feet to the ground and in falling turned a complete somersault. He sustained a dislocated hip and numerous cuts and bruises. He was removed to this city and taken to the Sexton sanatorium. Eider was unconscious for a long time and it was at first thought that the injuries would prove fatal, but it is said after a complete examination that he will recover. Eider has been working for the traction company for some time. His home is in Vincennes.

VISITS SCENES OF
HIS BOYHOOD DAYS

Charles Woodward, 89 Years Old of Detroit, Returns to Rushville
to Meet Chum.

RECOGNIZES FEW LANDMARKS

A venerable old white-haired man visited Rushville today to see the town of his youth, and to meet a chum of the by-gone days, Granville Cowing of Muncie. This man is Charles Woodward, 89 years old, and now resides at Detroit. He was a harness maker here and left Rushville in 1848.

Mr. Woodward walked over the town slowly to scrutinize any landmarks of the olden days, but could recognize only the old "Pike" building, better known here now as the Frame building or the Court House grocery, corner Main and First streets.

Several years ago, when Jefferson Carr contributed his "Reminiscences" to the Republican, Mr. Woodward also wrote several articles of reminiscences of his stay here in Rushville.

The court today ordered a drain established in Center township on the petition of Leroy Divilbliss and others.

SUICIDE RUMOR
CURRENT TODAY

Physicians Refute Story Circulated
That Andy Yunker Attempted
to Take His Life.

HE SUFFERS SEVERE ATTACK

Found Unconscious in Back Part of Shop at Noon—Front Door Locked.

Rumor was current this afternoon that Andy Yunker of 424 North Sexton street, proprietor of a meat market at the corner of Second and Morgan streets, had attempted to take his life and that he would not survive through the night. Physicians who attended him refute the story that was circulated when they stated that no trace of any drug that might have been taken with suicidal intent could be found. According to the doctors, Mr. Yunker suffered a sudden and severe illness which rendered him unconscious. He did not regain consciousness until late this afternoon.

Gibson Ross, an employe of the meat market, returned to work from dinner at twelve o'clock today and was surprised to find that the front door was locked. He went to the back door and found Mr. Yunker lying in an unconscious condition, near the door. He summoned Drs. D. D. VanOsdol and E. I. Wooden, who took Mr. Yunker to his home in an automobile. They worked over his prostrate form until about three o'clock this afternoon. He began to show signs of regaining consciousness at that time and the physicians left his bedside with the assurance that he was out of danger.

At three o'clock, however, Mr. Yunker had not regained his senses sufficiently to talk intelligently. The members of his family said late this afternoon that he had not yet explained why he happened to be found in such a plight.

The fact that the front door was found to be locked probably caused the story to be circulated that Mr. Yunker had attempted to commit suicide. Employees at the meat shop say that Mr. Yunker has been in poor health for six months or more. It is their theory that he felt the attack coming on and locked the front door with the intention of hurrying to the doctor's office for treatment and got no farther than the back door. The physicians state positively that there was no trace of any drug in his system which would give them the least hint that he had attempted to take his life.

Pierriot Shape Is Most Radical Fall Style in Hats

So many lovely creations, large and small, quaint and smart, have the milliners designed for our delight during the two seasons that it seemed almost out of the question that even Paris could offer anything new for Fall. Yet here they are with us—the new models, seeming, as ever, smarter and more bravely fine than the old. Also, alas, they are so unlike any former fashions that remodeling last year's hat for this year is altogether out of the question.

The most radical departure from all recent millinery precedent is the very high, pointed crown, narrow brim, "Pierriot" shape, which is the real style note of the day. These crowns are rarely less than ten inches in height, and very often more. They are very narrow, even at the base, and taper to a rounded or flattened conical top. The brims are usually pinched in a poke across the front, or at the back, and sometimes they are poked at both sides, being plain, back and front. This high, narrow, conic or "Pierriot" shape is a very practical one, at it fits the head well. It is designed to be worn without rats, puffs or any distended, artificial coiffure arrangement.

The high, narrow hat, while predominate, will not, by any means, entirely displace the picture hat of ample brim and generous curves. This type of cheapeau is altogether too elegant and too becoming to a large number of women to permit of its being hastily relegated to the limbo of things past and forgotten. The ultra-smart large hat will be just as large as ever, if not so ubiquitous, and will be flatter than ever, with crown barely raised above the brim, by the scantiest allowance of inches.

Some medium large hats are being fashioned with high crowns, but they will scarcely have the appeal of the flatter, wider models. The large hat is now looked upon as exclusively a dress affair, and not for the "highways and byways" of the marketplace. This is as it should be, and a welcome innovation to those who have suffered from its expansiveness in public conveyances, elevators and the crowded streets.

Old-fashioned poke bonnets are modish still, and this is fortunate, for they have a certain quaint pretti-

ness, well in keeping with demure, young or round faces. The woman who looks well in them usually looks amazingly well, better, in fact, than in almost any other type of head-gear. Before passing by the old-fashioned poke, as too extreme, one should try it on, at least, for it may prove a revelation. These old-fashioned bonnets are some-times edged about with fringe, a trimming in perfect harmony with their lines. They are usually made of velvet, and the sheltering brims are lined or faced with taffeta, or satin.

Velvet, by the way, is the material par excellence for the fashionable winter hat. It is used both on pressed and handmade shapes, alone and in combination with satin, taffeta, hatter's plus and fur felt. Uncut velvet is a novelty, both for hats and trimmings, very rich in appearance, but more resembling cord silk than ordinary velvet.

All kinds and velvets are employed in the fashioning of winter hats and bonnets, satins, corded silks, moires, and plushes having been reinforced by the advent of taffeta, into the millinery field. The vogue of taffeta gowns, trimmed with fringe, which took Paris by storm during the late summer, has given an impetus to this fabric for winter millinery. Hats of felt and velvet are faced with taffeta, and taffeta is sometimes pressed upon the upper sides of hats with felt or velvet facings.

French crepe is new as a material for hat facings, and affords a delightfully soft and becoming background for the face. The head sizes of the new hats remain large, and though a bit closer than of late seasons, they still allow the hats to sink well over the face.

For all practical purposes this will be quite a ribbon season, as a very wide plain fancy ribbons are used extensively as trimmings for hats of all kinds. Particularly is this true of the new, high-crowned, narrow-brimmed hats, which are very generally trimmed with ribbon. Ribbons show some very handsome new, double-faced effects, the reverse side of brighter hue appearing in a band upon the upper side of darker color. These ribbons are trimmed about the new high crowns, fold upon fold, with these bright edges at each fold, and meeting in a bias in front. The crown is thus entirely covered, and at the back rises a wired crest of ruffled ribbon, in plume effect, very full and fluffy, and upstanding to an even greater height than the crown of the hat. Velvet and silk are also arranged on these hats, in the same fashion as ribbon, or in short, sharp, up-standing bows, covering the crowns and simulating wings.

Wings, fancy feathers, and aigrette effects, are in almost universally popular form of trimming for hats of all descriptions. Ostrich plumes, of the French variety, or uncurled, have replaced the drooping willows. With the sale of aigrettes prohibited in this country, various substitutes are being devised that will give the same effect of feathery spray.

Very pointed wing effects prevail, and on the new conic or clown hats, they are trimmed all about the crown with points unstanding. Whole conic crowns of masses of small wings are another favorite arrangement.

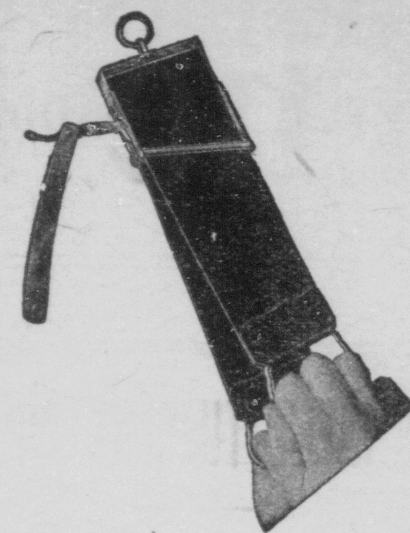

Ostrich bands are often used to cover the high crown with a finish of upstanding French tips at side or back. Coque feathers are again the mode and are being wired and braided into all manner of upstanding cascade effects.

Paradise feathers, too, are again high style, and will therefore no doubt be even more expensive than formerly.

Very few flowers are used, though one sees a few velvet pansies and clusters of velvet fruits. Some high poppies and roses are employed to form the entire crowns of high hats, the petals extending downward upon the brims. These mammoth flowers are all of a foot across, and in uncut velvet they are decidedly handsome.

Wool embroideries and wool applique, in soft, bright colors, are sometimes applied on hand-made hats. They are especially pretty on the deep brim of the quaint, old-fashioned poke bonnet.

As to colors, hats are quite generally modest, purple, prunes, browns, grey, navy and black predominating, with touches of royal blue, emerald green and coronation red, a deep cerise—in the trimmings. Many smart hats are all in dark, full tones, all black, grey, navy or navy and grey

THE COMING APPLE SHOW

Active Preparations Going Forward
For Comprehensive Exhibit of Indi-

Week of Nov. 6.—Prof. Woodbury
of Purdue is Rounding Up a Goodly Number of Exhibitors.

Indianapolis, Sept. 30.—The horticultural authorities of Purdue university are taking an active part in promoting the Indiana apple show, to be held in Indianapolis, the week of Nov.
6. C. G. Woodbury, at the head of the university's fruit culture department,
is secretary of the commission appointed by the Indiana State Horticultural society to organize and conduct
the show, and his close connection with the fruit growers of the state is enabling him to round up a goodly number of exhibitors. Mr. Woodbury is not only sending out instructions to growers on how to gather, pack and ship their apples to Indianapolis, but he is helping the orchardists to identify apples from old orchards that they may be entered in the show for premiums in the proper classes.

The Purdue authorities say that this is one of the greatest years in the history of Indiana orchards.

Workers after the arrest of John J.
McNamara are to be returned to the association next Monday. The articles to be returned have been carefully
inspected by Prosecutor Frank P.
Baker and expert accountants. "It's stuff that nobody wants," said Mr.
Baker.

The books and papers contain nothing
relative to the dynamiting cases.
They are simply records of the routine
business of the iron workers' organizations and of no interest to anybody
but the iron workers themselves. The grand jury has a mass of other books
and papers which were also confiscated at the time of McNamara's arrest.
These are kept under constant guard.

Caught Between Cars.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 30.—Earl Wil-
lamson, a yard clerk for the Lake Erie & Western Railway company
here, only son of Otto Williams, superintendent of the Muncie police department, was killed when he was caught between two cars in the yards.
Young Williamson took the position
with the railroad company about a month ago.

They Eased the Tension.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 30.—The nervous tension in Gary, which always follows
a civic upheaval, had an outlet when Councilman Emerson L. Bowser, one of the bribery case defendants, and James Scanlon, a detective, came to blows as the result of a quarrel.
Bowser accused Scanlon of trying to "double cross" him.

Got a Good Start.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 30.—Web Silfer, charged with arson, and Joe Hammonds, charged with burglary, escaped
from the county jail here by prying
out the bars of a window. The escape was not noticed until morning, when the turnkey appeared to feed his prisoners.

State Medical Association.

Indianapolis, Sept. 30.—Dr. W. F.
Howatt of Hammond was elected president of the Indiana State Medical association, and the association decided to hold next year's meeting in this city.

Another Aviator Killed.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Captain Englehardt, who was one of Orville Wright's earliest German pupils, was killed at Johannisthal Friday afternoon. The machine, in which he was flying with a passenger, was overturned suddenly at a height of fifty feet. The passenger is in a critical condition.

KING OF ITALY

THE PRESIDENT WINS
SENATOR CUMMINS

Iowan Capitulates to Taft's
Peace Plans.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 30.—The president's two-days' visit to Iowa was finished last night and he left insurgent territory until his return through the northwest late in October. Today
President Taft is a guest of the Missouri state fair here.

Mr. Taft ended his Iowa speechmaking tour at Ottumwa, as he began it, discussing the tariff. He had an audience of 3,000 and he impressed upon them again his desire for their support next winter, when he recommends
a tariff revision in accordance with the demands of their state Republican platform and gained the crowd's applause with his earnest promises to do all that he had been pledged to do with respect to the tariff. He told them that he expected as president to be criticised by the press and by politicians, but he felt the people would go behind such censure and judge the situation upon the facts. Support from the Republicans of Iowa, if he conforms next winter with the dictates of their platform, is the plea that the president sounded in every address which he made on the tariff in that state, and it seems to have taken
well with his audiences.

The president gained Senator Cummings, who has consistently opposed
him in nearly every policy, to the support of his arbitration treaties. The insurgent senator's capitulation followed upon the heels of a peace
speech which the president made at Des Moines before an audience of 4,000 people. The president's reception everywhere in Iowa was cordial and there seemed to be that in the Iowa atmosphere which stimulated
him to his best effort.

A FORD TRAGEDY

Traveling Man Caught and Swept Away by Sudden Freshet.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 30.—It is believed that F. C. Clark, aged twenty-two, a traveling salesman for the Mc-Cowan Lumber company of Salem perished in the high waters of Bean Blossom creek, about ten miles northeast of this city. A horse and buggy which the young man was driving
were found in the creek west of Maltin's Ford. The animal was dead and the buggy tipped over. No trace of Clark has been found. He evidently was attempting to ford the creek and the high waters caused by the rains of the last few days swept the buggy downstream.

Want to Fight Beaver Industry.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 30.—Application
has been made to the provincial government for leave to make war on the beaver pest in Algonquin park, where the beavers have built dams which are holding back the water from the power plants that generate electricity for lighting North Bay and other Ontario
towns.

Mr. Taft is beating the aviator in his cross country flights, anyhow.

In spite of all the delights of the aeroplane it will probably never supplant the closed buggy for taking your best girl to ride.

Before an aviator entertains hopes on a coast to coast trip, he should be able to make regular flights down town to buy a yeast cake.

Mr. Wickersham says he does not want to hurt "business," and "business" should remain on the side-walk
where it will get run over.

Kane county, Ill., is to have a public school spelling match, in which 14,000 pupils will take part. Can they tell what Bae kae he spells?

The great question among the Wilson boomers, is how to mate the Princeton tiger with the Tammany tiger so as to give birth to a presidential candidate.

Perhaps the best way to dispose of the enemy of warfare, would be to leave one of the battle ships around loose where they would be tempted
to take possession of it.

The men who in these days of stock market decline are seen reading the Wall street reports instead of their own ledger are good fellows to collect your bills from.

Mr. Taft says the "back to the land" movement will greatly increase,
but we notice they still have to hire
brass bands and balloons to convince city people that it is wise to buy lots
in the suburbs.

A smuggler's petticoat had thirty pockets. This would have satisfied the longings of the woman of a few years ago. In these skin tight days,
no receptacles for a woman's luggage
are possible save her hands and her
month.

Eleven thousand "voters" in Newark, N. J., could not be found at their addresses. The politicians must perform the duties for which they are elected by getting out to shake hands with real voters now.

Of course, the only reason Governor Marshall is disappointed over the decision that his new constitution
is unconstitutional is because it thwarts his passionate desire to clese and purify the ballot!

An eastern magazine sent a staff correspondent to Indiana to write up
the achievements of Governor Marshall. He summed them up in a seven word telegram, "Helped to repeal county local option law." Mr. Bryan is said to have swooned when he read
the report, and ordered the expurga-tion of the governor's name from his especially prepared list of "eligible"
presidential candidates.

The Indianapolis Sun is bound to be an "organ," says the Huntington Herald. It is now grinding out attacks upon the newspapers not enrolled under the Hanly banner, but that there is no longer any demand
for tariff insurgent literature in Indiana.

Some splendid tributes have been paid to Senator LaFollette, says the Marion Chronicle, in the muck-raking magazines whose graft on the postal treasury the senator from Wisconsin so persistently defends, but the most enthusiastic appreciation has now begun to run in serial form! It is
Mr. LaFollette's autobiography.

Newspaper readers have noticed that much of the space of newspapers is given to denunciation. Condemnation and censure are so freely indulged in that really just censure
loses its effect. The reason is probably found in the fact that denunciation, indiscriminate fault finding and censure attracts attention more quickly and holds it more strongly,
for a time at least, than commendation. And the first aim of the proprietor of a sensational newspaper, or a demagogue in public office is to collect a crowd and hold it. As long as he is successful in that, hope of realization of his unworthy ambition
remains.

The term stand-pat will never be applicable to the Democratic party, says the Huntington Herald. It has shifted from one position to another
every four years in the last half century. In 1864, it declared the war a failure. Do you hear anything of that now! In 1868, it was opposed to the greenback currency; now
greenbacks are its favorite money.
In 1872 it denounced the Baxter local option law as "old sumptuary." In 1878, it objected to the resumption of specie payments. In 1896, nothing would "save the country" except free silver. In 1908, its demand was for a city and township local option law.
In 1910, the slogan was township option. No, the Democratic party is not a "stand-pat" organization and the trouble is that it won't stay hitched
to any principles or any policy.

The present duty on wool is eleven cents per pound, says the Muncie Press. And wool sells in this country at the present time for about sixteen cents per pound. When prices are highest, wool never reaches 30 cents per pound. The present Liverpool price of wool is 32 cents per pound. A good suit of woolen clothes will cost from $18 to $20. It takes from six to eight pounds of wool in the grease to make a business suit of clothes. If the removal of the duty
from wool should decrease the cost of wool 5 cents per pound, the decreased cost of the wool necessary to make a suit of clothes would be less than 50 cents. If duty were entirely removed, the reduced cost of the wool necessary to make a suit of clothes would be less than $1.00. The men who wear woolen clothes would find little or no difference in the retail price and the sheep farmers, woolen mill operatives, garment makers, etc.,
of the United States would be the ones to suffer. It is false economy to ham-string American industries for the benefit of foreign farmers and working men.

At the public meeting held under the auspices of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association in the court house last night to consider steps to be taken to attempt to persuade the city council to furnish water to the Rushville Furniture Company for fire protection a committee of twenty-five representative men from the crowd was appointed to confer with the council and devise plans to help
the company so that it can proceed with its work. The committee will meet next Monday morning at the court house and will attempt to get a hearing before the council at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

It was plainly evident that the crowd which was at the meeting last night was in favor of action at once.
After Gates Sexton had put the motion that the chair appoint a committee to confer with the council, the unanimous and hearty vote was sufficient to show what the pulse of the community is. That the voters of the city feel that water should be furnished to the factory there is no doubt and the council will no doubt act wisely if it considers the sentiment that is abroad. The result of the conference will be awaited with interest.

TELLS JUDGE HE IS MISINFORMED

Dr. Clyde Early of This City is Star
Witness in Police Court in Indianapolis.

HE REMOVED A BOY'S FOOT

Witnesses Said it Was Not Necessary and Their Statements Are Refuted by Doctor.

Dr. Clyde Early, surgeon on the city hospital staff, explained to Judge Collins, in police court yesterday afternoon the circumstances of the amputation of the foot of little Johnnie Rocheford, the victim of a double accident in Kentucky avenue
last July, says the Indianapolis
News. The case was that of Romey Mitchell, charged with assault and battery on the Rocheford boy. The lad was struck by a motorcycle ridden by Mitchell, and was thrown under a passing street car.

At a former hearing of the case
witnesses testified that the toes only
of the boy's foot were crushed off
and when Judge Collins inquired why
the boy's foot had been sacrificed by amputation no one in court could furnish the information. The case was continued and Dr. Early, who performed the operation, was summoned.

Dr. Early told the judge that the latter was misinformed as to the extent of the child's injury. He said
the foot was practically crushed off, excepting the heel. He said he remembered the case distinctly, as the father accompanied the boy to the hospital, carrying the severed foot in the child's hat. He explained that the condition of the arteries in the maimed foot was such as to make necessary the amputation as it was made. The case was again continued by the court. The evidence indicated that both the motorcycle and street
car were running at a reasonable speed, when the Rocheford boy suddenly started to run across the street.

BINDS ALLEGED
HOG THIEF OVER
TO CONVERT DAY
INTO LOVE FEAST

Squire Webb Hears Evidence in Robbery Case and Places Harry Ship Under $200 Bond.

TO AWAIT GRAND JURY ACTION

Defendant is Charged With Stealing
"Porker" From James Meal,
Rush County Farmer.

Harry "Doc" Shipp, charged with being implicated in the theft of a hog from the St. Paul stock pens a few weeks ago, was given a hearing in the court of Squire Webb Friday afternoon and quite a crowd came up from the town in the pocket of the county to hear the evidence, says the Shelbyville Republican.

James Meals of Rush county, who filed the affidavit and who owned the hog, was the first witness called to the stand. He stated that Shipp, Jack Miller and George Mason were at the stock pens on that night after he had placed sixty-five head of hogs
there, and the next morning when he returned, one of the porkers was missing. He was asked if he could tell for a certainty just what color
the missing hog was and he answered that it was white. He stated that he would know the hog for the reason that it was bow-legged.

He was then asked if his feelings
were kindly toward Shipp, and he stated that they were not very kindly.
He acknowledged to having trouble with Shipp some time ago over a little account that Shipp claimed he owed him. He was also asked if Shipp at any time had threatened
him and he said he had; that Shipp
said he would get even with him if
it took a life time.

George Mason, who was arrested
shortly after the discovery was made that the hog had been stolen, was called to the witness stand and he said that Miller and Shipp were with him that night. He said that Miller had asked him if he wanted a hog and Shipp said he would get it for Mason. Mason says he went after his horse and buggy at the hitch-rack and drove over to the pens. On reaching there he said Shipp had gone, and he claims Miller caught the hog and they both loaded it into the buggy.

Mason made the statement on the stand that he had given Shipp seventy-five cents. He was asked whether that was to be given to the owner of the Thompson livery barn to take him home on Saturday after the stealing and he said he did not think it was. He thought he gave Thompson the money. He was intoxicated
at the time.

He was asked if they had anything
to drink on the night of the hog-stealing and he said they did; that they had about a gallon of whiskey.

Mr. Meal was asked the question:
"Didn't Mason ask you to try and get Miller and Shipp out of this when coming up on the car a few days ago," and his reply was in the affirmative.

Only one witness was introduced by the defense, after which the evidence was submitted to the justice
and Shipp was bound over to await the action of the grand jury which will meet in October.

COMMITTEE TO MEET COUNCIL

fire protection but a bonus to get new factories and here we have a factory that cost Rushville absolutely nothing and then they don't get fire protection. The controversy has settled down to two things and those are, would it be best to have the streets of the Stewart & Tompkins addition to Belmont conform with those of Belmont or make them conform with those of the city and have dead ends? The men of the council are of a high standard and look at this proposition in a different light than we do. I believe the members of the council are conscientious in this matter and have the best welfare of the city at heart."

Owen L. Carr said he was in favor of giving water to the factory for fire protection. "Once when I lived in Arlington," said Mr. Carr, "I sold a pony to a minor. His father objected to the deal and tried to keep me from getting the money. The controversy grew to such proportions that it was left to a committee to decide. The committee awarded me a cow and thirty cents. I took the cow and asked what the thirty cents had to do with it, and was told that it was for three drinks. Now, I think this factory proposition should be settled for less than thirty cents."

F. E. Wolcott said he believed the new factory should have fire protection regardless of the cost to the city. He said as it looked to him the whole trouble was over the streets not conforming with those of this city and this would be almost impossible to remedy.

Gates Sexton told the meeting that the factory fire protection and the streets of the addition had got beyond the theory stage and the time had come when definite action should be taken. Mr. Sexton made a motion that a committee of twenty-five men be appointed to confer with the council in regard to the matter.

The following men were placed on the committee: Gates Sexton, F. E. Wolcott, J. H. Gillespie, T. W. Betker, B. F. Miller, J. M. Gwinn, Owen L. Carr, Dr. D. H. Dean, Russel Casady, Jack Knecht, J. B. Schrichte, H. C. Flint, John Gantner, G. P. Hunt, Floyd Hogsett, Wilfred Grindle, Eli Jones, Walter Peters, George Helm, Henry Schattner, Ralph Payne, John Wallace, Lew Oneal, Ben Cox and Willard Amos.

The committee will meet Monday morning at nine o'clock in the Sheriff's office. It is urged that all members be present as the council meets Tuesday night and some course of action will have to be decided upon. Pres. Schrichte urged the committee to use their influence with the council and try and effect some arrangement whereby the factory can get water for fire protection.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will have the same program as last night, showing two reels of pictures.

The Portola feature program is considered the best the theater has yet had. The coronation pictures entitled "The Coronation of King George V." shows the long line of march of the magnificent parade. "An Indian's Appreciation" is a western story telling how an old Indian caused the rescue of the people who had once saved him. The film is very realistic and is a thrilling drama. "The Switchman's Tower" is a sensational picture and is said to be the best picture shown here in many months. There is a pathetic story told and ends with a thrilling rescue from an on rushing train by the mother of the little girl. Paul Williams of Morristown and Ralph Harold furnished the music. The same show will be given again tonight.

both bands should be hired.

T. W. Betker, chairman of the committee on decorations, reported that he had done nothing in regard to his part of the work only think about it and discuss it with the other idea that it would be useless to ask for any uniform decoration on the big day and thinks it best for the merchants to use their own ideas in decorating lavishly in flags and bunting. Lewis Oneal reported that the wires along the outer edge of the sidewalk would be stretched in time for "Sherman day" and they will be used to support streamers and flags. Merchants are planning now to vie with one another in arranging their store fronts for the day. It was suggested that most of the decorating be done Monday.

Bert Mullin reported that requests had been coming in to Mr. Watson from all of the small towns along the traction line between here and Indianapolis for the special car to stop at their town so that the vice-president could make a brief speech. At first Mr. Watson demurred but finally consented to stop the car five minutes at every town where a request was made. It is the desire to get Mr. Sherman to this city as soon as possible.

The question was raised as to how the money to pay the expenses of the day should be obtained. Floyd Hogsett suggested that a committee be appointed to go all over the downtown streets and ask for small contributions. He held that a good sum could be obtained in that manner. G. P. Hunt said each merchant should be assessed two dollars each as he thought a business man should be more willing to give that amount for "Sherman day" than he did for any "Big Wednesday." It was suggested that each merchant give one dollar, but in the end it was the wish of the members of the committee that the two dollar assessment should be made and that a committee, consisting of John Gantner and Floyd Hogsett, should canvass the streets. That was done upon suggestion of Harvey Cowing.

The program for the day came up for consideration. After some discussion it was decided that Anthony Schrichte, president of the Retail Merchants Association, would make a brief speech of welcome and should act as master of ceremonies. It is planned for Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall to introduce the vice-president and James E. Watson to introduce Senator John W. Kern. Large portraits of Sherman, Kern, Watson and Hall will be hung on the platform which will be decorated in bunting and flags. It will be located on the west court house lawn between the entrance and the northwest corner.

At the close of the meeting it was decided to hold a called meeting of the whole association next Wednesday.

The names of the members of the reception committee which will go to Indianapolis on the special car to meet Mr. Sherman were read and are as follows: Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall, Mayor A. B. Black, Tony Schrichte, George Peuntenney, Frank E. Wolcott, John D. Megee, Cary Jackson, J. T. Arbuckle, Roy Harold, Bert Mullin, Roy Jones, H. G. Hackman, Will M. Bliss, Earl H. Payne, A. L. Riggs, Verne Norris, Claude Cambern, Will Frazee and James E. Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Ball and family have moved from their home in Posey township to 715 North Harrison street.

Ruggles ruminated: "Has the Duchess complications financially?"

"Ra-ther!" the other answered. And Ruggles turned his broad, honest face full on Galorey: "Do you think she could be bought off?"

Galorey took his pipe out of his mouth. "It depends on how far Dan has gone on with her. To be frank with you, Mr. Ruggles, it is a case of emotion on the part of the woman. She is really in love with Dan. Gad!" exclaimed the nobleman. "I have been on the point of turning the whole brood out of doors these last days. It was like imprisoning a mountain breeze in a chancel house—a woman with her scars and her experience and that boy—I don't know where you've kept him or how you kept him as he is, but he is as clear as water. I have talked to him and I know."

Nothing in Ruggles' expression had changed until now. His eyes glowed. "Dan's all right," he said softly. "Don't you worry! He's all right. I guess his father knew what he was doing, and I'll bet the whole thing was just what he sent him over here for! Old Dan Blair wasn't worth a copper when the boy was born, and yet he had ideas about everything and he seemed to know more in that old gray head of his than a whole library of books. Dan's all right."

"My dear man," said the nobleman, "that is just where you Americans are wrong. You comfort yourself with your eternal 'Dan's all right,' and you won't see the truth. You won't breathe the word 'scandal' and yet you are thick enough in them, God knows. You won't admit them, but they are there. Now be honest and look at the truth, will you? You are a man of common sense. Dan Blair is not all right. He is in an infernally dangerous position. The Duchess of Breakwater will marry him. It is what she has wanted to do for years, but she has not found a man rich enough, and she will marry this boy offhand."

"Well," said the Westerner slowly, "if he loves her and if he marries her—"

"Marries her!" exclaimed the nobleman. "There you are again! Do you think marriage makes it any better? Why, if she went off to the Continent with him for six weeks and then set him free, that would be preferable to marrying her. My dear man," he said, leaning over the table where Ruggles sat, "if I had a boy I would rather have him marry Letty Lane of the Gaiety. Now you know what I mean."

Ruggles' face, which had hardened, relaxed. "I have seen that lady," he exclaimed with satisfaction; "I have seen her several times."

Galorey sank back into his chair and neither man spoke for a few seconds. Turning it all over in his slow mind, Ruggles remembered Dan's absorption in the last few days. "So there are three women in the nest," he concluded thoughtfully, and Gordon Galorey repeated:

"No, not three. What do you mean?"

"Your wife"—Ruggles held up one finger and Galorey interrupted him to murmur:

"I'll take care of Edith."

"The Duchess of Breakwater you think won't talk of money?"

"No, don't count on it. She is aiming at ten million pounds."

Ruggles was holding up his second finger.

"Well, I guess Dan has gone out to take care of her today."

Dan and Ruggles had seen "Mandalay" from a box, from the pit and from the stalls. On the table lay a book of the opera. While talking with Galorey, Ruggles had unconsciously arranged the checks on top of the libretto of "Mandalay."

"I'll take care of Miss Lane," Ruggles said at length.

His lordship echoed, "Miss Lane?" and looked up in surprise. "What Miss Lane, for God's sake?"

"Miss Letty Lane at the Gaiety," Ruggles answered.

"Why, she isn't in the question, my dear man."

"You put her there just now yourself."

"Bosh!" Galorey exclaimed impatiently, "I spoke of her as being the limit, the last thing on the line."

"No," corrected the other, "you put the Duchess of Breakwater as the limit."

Galorey smiled frankly. "You are right, my dear chap," he accepted, "and I stand by it."

A page boy knocked at the door and came in holding out on a salver a card for Mr. Ruggles, and at the interruption Galorey rose and invited Ruggles to go out with him that night to Osdene. "Lady Galorey will be delighted."

But Ruggles shook his head. "The boy is coming back here tonight," and Galorey laughed.

CATARRH SUFFERERS

If You Don't Know About Hyomei Try it at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Risk.

Nearly every reader of the Daily Republican has read about HYOMEI, but many of them continue to suffer from catarrh just because they do not exactly understand just what HYOMEI is.

To these sufferers F. B. Johnson & Co. says you don't have to know anything about HYOMEI except that you breathe it and that it does not contain cocaine or opium or any harmful drug.

You can find out all about HYOMEI without taking any chances whatever. Just get an outfit today, read the simple instruction, give it a fair trial and then if you are not willing to say that it is the best remedy for catarrh you have ever used F. B. Johnson & Co. will gladly return your money.

A complete HYOMEI outfit costs but $1.00. Extra bottles 50 cents.

"Don't you believe it! You don't know how deep in he is. You don't know the Duchess of Breakwater. Once he is with her—"

At the same time that the page boy handed Mr. Ruggles the card of the caller, he gave him as well a small envelope, which contained box tickets for the Gaiety. Ruggles examined it.

"I have got some writing to do," he told Galorey, "and I'm going to see a show tonight, and I think I'll just stay here and watch my hole."

As soon as Galorey had left the Carlton, Mr. Ruggles despatched his letters and his visitor, made a very careful toilet, and after waiting until past eight o'clock for Dan to return to dinner, dined alone on roast beef and a tart, and with perfect digestion, if somewhat thoughtful mind, left the hotel and walked down the dim street to the brilliant Strand, and on foot to the Gaiety.

CHAPTER VII.

At the Stage Entrance.

Ruggles, from his stall, for the fourth time saw the curtain go up on "Mandalay" and heard the temple bells ring. One of the stage boxes was not occupied until after the first act and then the son of his friend came in alone and sat far back out of sight of any eyes but the keenest, and those eyes were Ruggles'. Letty Lane, delicious, fantastic, languishing, sang to Dan; that was evident to Ruggles. He was a large man and filled his stall comfortably. He sat through the performance peacefully, his hands in his pockets, his big face thoughtful, his shirt front ruffled. To look at him, one must have wondered why he had come to "Mandalay." He scarcely lost any of the threads of his own reflections, though when Miss Lane in response to a call from the house, sang her cradle song three times, he seemed moved. The tones of her pure voice, the cradling in her arms of an imaginary child, her apparent dove-like purity, her grace and sweetness, and her cooing, gentle tone, to judge by the softening of the Westerner's face, touched very much the big fellow who listened like a child. At the end he drew his handkerchief slowly across his eyes, but the tears, or rather moisture, that rose there was not all due to Miss Lane's song, for Ruggles was extremely warm.

He could see that in his box the boy sat transfixed and absorbed. Dan went out in the second entr'acte and was absent when the curtain went down. Ruggles, as well, left before the performance was over, to make his way outside the theater to the stage exit, where there was already gathered a little group, looked after by a couple of policemen. Close to the curb a gleaming motor waited, the footman at its door. Ruggles buttoned his coat up to his chin and took his place close to the door, over which the electric light showed the words "Stage Entrance." A poor woman elbowed him, her shabby hat adorned by a scraggy plume, a gray shawl wrapped round her shoulders. A girl or two, who might have been flower sellers in Piccadilly in the daytime, a couple of toughs, a handful of other vagrants smelling of gin, a decent man in working clothes, a child in his arms, formed the human hedge Letty Lane was to pass between—a singular group of people to spend an hour hanging about the streets at the exit of a theater well toward midnight. So the naive Ruggles thought, and better understood the appearance of the young fellows in evening clothes who hovered on the extreme edge of the little crowd. Dan, however, was not of these.

"Look sharp, Cissy," the working-man spoke to his child, holding her well up. "When she comes hout she'll pass close to yer, and you sing hout, 'God bless yer.'"

"Yes, Dad, I will," shrilled the child. The woman in the gray shawl drew it close about her. "Aw she's a true lidy, all right, ain't she? I expect you've had some kindness off her as well?"

The man nodded over the child's shoulder. "Used to be a scene shifter, and Miss Lane found out about my little girl last year—not this lass, not Cissy, Cissy's sister—and she sent 'er to a place where it costs the eyes out of yer head. She's gettin' well fast, and we, none of us, has seen her or spoken to Miss Lane. She doesn't know our names."

And the woman answered: "She does a lot like that. She's got a heart bigger'n her little body."

And a big boy in the front row said back to the others: "Well, she makes a mint of money."

And the woman who had spoken before said: "She gives it nearly all to the poor."

Ruggles was evidently on the poor side of the waiting crowd; the handful of riffraff around him with its stench of dirt and gin. A better looking set collected opposite and there was the gleam of white shirt fronts.

"Now, there she comes," the father saw her first. "Sing out, Cissy!"

The door opened and a figure quickly floated from it, like a white rose blown out into the foggy darkness. It floated down the few steps to the street between the double row of spectators. A white cloak entirely covered the actress. Her head was hidden by a white scarf, and she almost ran the short gantlet to her motor, between the cries of "God bless you!"—"Three cheers for Letty Lane!"—"God bless you, lady!" She didn't speak or heed, however, or turn her head, but held her scarf against her face, and the man who slowly lounged behind her to the car, and put her in and got in after her, was not the man Joshua Ruggles had waited there to see. He hung about until the footman had sprung up and the car moved softly away, the stage entrance door shut, then he followed along with the crowd, with the few faithful who had waited an hour in the cold mist to cry out their applause, not to a singer in "Mandalay," but to a woman's heart.

CHAPTER VIII.

Dan's Simplicity.

The Duchess of Breakwater was not sure how close Dan Blair's thoughts were to marriage, but the boy from Montana was the easiest prey that had come across the beautiful and unscrupulous woman's range. He had told her that he stayed on up in London to see a man from home, and when after four days he still lingered in town, she found his absence un-

"Gosh! When I Saw Her There on the Stage, Why—" bearable, and sent him a wire so worded that if he had a spark of interest in her he must immediately return to the Park. She had never been more lovely than when Dan found her waiting for him.

She had ordered tea in her sitting-room. She told him that he looked frightfully seedy, asked him what he had been doing and why he had stopped so long away, and Blair told her that old Ruggles, his father's friend, had run over to see him with a lot of papers for Dan to read and sign and closed with a smile, telling her that he guessed she "didn't know much about business."

"I only know the horrid things of business—debts, and loans, and bills, and fussing."

"Those things are not business," Dan answered wisely; "they are just common or garden carelessness."

She asked him why he had not brought Ruggles out to Osdene, and he told her he couldn't have done a stroke of work with the old boy down here at the Park.

Stirring his tea, he appreciated the duchess. The agreeable picture she made impressed him mightily.

"Do you know," he asked suddenly, "what you make me think of?"

And she responded softly: "No, dear."

"A box of candy. This room with its stuffed walls, and you in it are good enough—"

"To eat?" she laughed aloud. "Oh, you perfectly killing creature, what an idea!"

And as he met her eyes with his clear ones, with a simplicity she could never hope to reach, he put his tea-cup down; and as he did so the duchess observed his strong hands, their vigor, well-kept and muscular, but not the dandified hands of the man who goes often to the manicure.

"If it hadn't been for one thing," the boy went on, "I would have thought of nothing else but you, every minute I've been away."

"Mr. Ruggles?" suggested the duchess.

"No, the Gaiety girl, Letty Lane. You know I told you in the box that she was from my town."

The young man, who had flown back to Osdene Park in answer to a telegram, began to take his companion into his confidence.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle to-day, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

CARRIES WAR INTO EUROPE

Italy Has Invaded European Turkey.

AN UNEXPECTED MOVEMENT

Despite Understanding That the War Would Be Confined to Tripoli, the Italians Sank a Turkish Destroyer in the Harbor of Provesa and Landed Troops—Rigid Blockade Maintained Off Coast of Tripoli.

Salonica, European Turkey, Sept. 30.—An Italian cruiser has destroyed a Turkish destroyer in the harbor of Provesa, in the province of Epirus, and landed troops. The Turkish authorities are sending a battalion of troops to Provesa. This invasion of European Turkey is regarded as fraught with tremendous consequences. Epirus is an Albanian province, the theater of many rebellions against the sultan. Italian munitions of war, it is discovered, have been lately sent into Albania in quantities.

Constantinople, Sept. 30.—Actual hostilities have opened. The Italians landed at Tripoli and Benghazi, which is 420 miles east by south of Tripoli. The cabinet has resigned. Said Pasha, the president of the senate, has been appointed grand vizier, Kiamil Pasha has been appointed foreign minister, while Shekel Pasha remains minister of war.

Tripoli, Sept. 30.—The demonstration of the Italian fleet off this port is in the nature of a tentative blockade. The steamships Adria and Ereole have left here with the remainder of the Italian colony. Tripoli is now deserted save for Turkish soldiers and Arabs. The Italian destroyer that entered the port under the white flag brought a summons for the surrender of the Turkish garrison. The Turkish authorities refused, and the prompt invasion followed.

London, Sept. 30.—Word received here says that when the Italians landed troops at Tripoli, the first two landing barges were destroyed by the Turkish fire. Immediately on landing and after hoisting the Italian flag on the government building, the Italians evidently seized the telegraph lines. From the hour of their landing no message of any kind has been received from Tripoli.

Provesa, Sept. 30.—Italian gunboats encountered two Turkish transports with 2,000 troops aboard. The transports, determined not to be captured, steamed bravely on the rocks off Provesa and hundreds were drowned.

Rome, Sept. 30.—A state of war exists between Turkey and Italy. The neutral powers were so notified late yesterday, the statement being made that the Italian fleet would at once blockade the coast of Tripoli. The Italian government engages to safeguard the lives and property of all foreigners in Tripoli.

As soon as the ultimatum was delivered the Italian fleet established a blockade off the coast of Tripoli and no Turkish steamer is now able to enter. The Turkish charge d'affaires at once received his passports to the frontier and started for home last evening.

Mission of the Fleet.

The present mission of the fleet is to prepare everything for landing the army corps, which is commanded by General Caneva. If the Italian subjects are molested by Turkey, the fleet will extend its area of operations. If the Turkish warships attempt action a strong Italian squadron will be sent to deal with it immediately. No disembarkation of sailors and marines at Tripoli is to be expected, as the force would not be enough to sustain an attack by the garrison of Tripoli. The main landing force will leave the Italian and Sicilian waters early in the week. Tripoli will not be bombarded unless the lives and property of Italians and foreigners be endangered. The Turkish fortifications are armed only with small caliber Krupp guns and cannot injure the warships, which will be able to destroy the forts without difficulty. The blockade is established in order to prevent the landing of Turkish reinforcements. The admiral in command has been instructed to distribute his ships along the Albanian, Macedonian and Syrian coasts the moment action begins. The order seeks to prevent any attempt against the Italian government even by privateering, which would be easy from Albania, as it is only a few hours distant from the Italian port of Apulia, on the Adriatic, which is quite undefended by forts or fortifications.

The ships will also protect Italians and foreigners alike in Ottoman territory. The cruisers now in Tripoli waters will when the order to bombard Tripoli is issued, embark the few Italians left and any foreigners who may wish to leave. These, however, are very few, the exodus from Tripoli practically being complete.

Troops Ready to Start.

Over 30,000 men have been mobilized in Italy. They are ready to start, and where and are ready to start, under command of General Caneva. For ty transports with steam up are ready at various ports to take these men aboard and sail away. The first squadron is to intercept the Turkish fleet at Beirut, blockade Turkish ports and prevent any blockade running. The second squadron has orders to patrol the Red sea, and the third is to remain in reserve at Taranto.

The first force is made up of 25,000 men. There will be 40,000 men altogether when the entire force is landed. Regiments are departing daily from the chief Italian towns for Palermo, Naples, Brindisi, Syracuse, Catania, Taranto, Genoa, Ancona and Venice, where they will embark aboard transports. The force will be established at Tripoli by Oct. 10. All ships with ammunition, guns and telegraphic apparatus will follow the transports. Aeroplanes and probably other types of airships will be dispatched later.

The utmost enthusiasm prevails in Italy. There are war demonstrations in all towns and the people are marching in processions singing the national songs.

The government has elaborated a scheme for an administration of Tripoli. The first step will be the remission of many taxes. It is reported that the Duke of the Abruzzi will be the first governor. It is currently reported at Tripoli that a German warship will arrive shortly to protect the German interests.

Socialists continue their anti-war agitation despite the failure of the general strike. They had a clash yesterday with the police at Langhirone, near Parma. Three Socialists were killed. In another conflict in the same district, one was killed.

HOW IT STARTED

Turko-Italian Feud Has Been a Long Time Brewing.

The trouble between Turkey and Italy dates back to 1878, when with the making of the treaty concluding the Russo-Turkish war the powers are understood to have agreed to permit Italy a "pacific penetration of Tripoli."

Turkey claims that this right has been respected ever since. Italy has colonized Tripoli until her interests there are very great. She has asserted, however, that her subjects have been mistreated by the Ottoman authority and discriminated against. Frequent disputes have arisen, but the prolonged negotiations have never resulted satisfactorily to Italy.

At the time the Franco-German differences regarding Morocco were acute, Italy turned her attention to Tripoli and in negotiations with Constantinople set forth that many outrages against her subjects had been perpetrated, for which no redress had been made. She assumed a decisive attitude and began the mobilization of her army and navy. A few days ago the first squadron of the Italian navy was sent to Tripolitan waters, and it has since patrolled that coast. At the same time Turkey was warned not to send soldiers or munitions of war to Tripoli. A Turkish transport bearing a few men and arms and ammunition later arrived at Tripoli from Constantinople, but was not molested. She had sailed before the Italian warning had been received.

Fighting Strength Compared.

Italy's standing army in 1910-11 numbered 225,000 men and 14,000 officers, but a far greater number could be put in the field. The Italian navy consists in vessels commissioned, built or building, of fifteen battleships, nine armored cruisers, seventeen unarmored cruisers and gun vessels, thirty-six destroyers, an equal number of first-class torpedo boats and twenty-two submarines. In the naval force there are approximately 31,000 men. As a whole the Italian navy is generally ranked fifth among the powers.

Naval lists show that Turkey has a fighting strength of nine coast defense ironclads, five protected cruisers, six torpedo boats and two submarines. As compared with the greater nations, this array is a negligible quantity. There are 31,000 officers and men, as against 9,000 marines. English and American officers play an important part in Turkish naval affairs. The Ottoman army as a result of the recent revolution is in process of reorganization, but a military council has been formed and a great deal of modern equipment has been purchased. The total fighting strength is close to a million men, and all Musselmans are liable to military service.

Uncle Sam an Onlooker.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Two American naval vessels are enroute to Malta, where they will remain until further orders, to be prepared to protect American interests in Tripoli. The scout cruiser Chester, which sailed from Boston a little more than a week ago, passed Gibraltar yesterday and entered the Mediterranean. The gunboat Scorpion, station ship at Constantinople, is now at Trieste. She has also been directed to proceed to Malta. They will arrive about Oct. 5 and will be held in readiness there to proceed to the coast of Tripoli in case of necessity.

The Kaiser Will Keep Out.
Berlin, Sept. 30.—It is learned from an official source that the attitude of Germany in the clash between Turkey and Italy will be strictly neutral. Germany will endeavor to get the other powers to join in an effort to localize the war and prevent trouble in the Balkans.

Some commentators interviewed by the English press can see no possibility of Turkey making a useful resistance in Tripoli.

NON-UNION ARMY IS BEING MASSED

Harriman System Recruiting Strike Breakers.

READY TO MEET BIG WALK-OUT

With the Strike of 35,000 Shopmen Today an Equal Force of Non-Union Men Is Being Marshalled From All Points of the Compass to Take the Places of the Dissatisfied Union Toolers.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—The railroads began massing armies of non-union men to take the places of the strikers following orders from the unions calling 35,000 men from the shops of the Illinois Central and other Harriman lines at 10 o'clock this morning. At the offices of the Illinois Central it was said that more than 14,000 men already have been engaged and that the places of the union men will be filled at once. Other roads showed similar activity and are prepared to rush trainloads of men from other cities to fill the places that will be left open by the walk-out.

Chicago is more seriously affected temporarily than any other large city, as 4,000 Illinois Central employees at work at the Burnside shops walked out in a body, the leaders assert.

President Kline prepared a message which was wired to various crafts on the two lines throughout the country. The telegram bore the signature of the international president of each craft to which it is directed, and after declaring that all efforts at settlement having failed, all crafts would strike at 10 o'clock today, stating that a letter of instruction is to follow. The telegram concluded with: "Let every man do his duty."

Ultimately the whole United States will be affected and there will be a complete tie-up of all railroads, according to James W. Kline, international president of the Blacksmiths and Helpers' union, who made the official announcement of the strike.

Every railroad that connects with the Harriman lines and the Illinois Central will be crippled by the strike, say the union leaders, which promises to be one of the greatest in the history of railroading.

Both sides are determined to win. The attitude of the railroads is clearly shown in a statement made by one of the rail chiefs, who says:

"We might as well turn over our roads to the men as to grant their demands."

Temporarily the strike will affect the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roads more than other roads, as these lines connect more often with the Harriman system.

A TEN-FOOT FENCE

Surrounds the Union Pacific's Shops at Omaha.

Omaha, Sept. 30.—The Union Pacific railroad had practically completed all preparations for the strike, and the officials are ready for whatever may arise. At Omaha everything is ready for the importation of strike breakers if such becomes necessary. The big steel shop, within the regular shop enclosure, has been cleared of all machinery and material and is ready for cots and bedding. This building will house about 1,000 men. In addition one of the car repair buildings was also made ready for occupancy as a bunk room. The Omaha shops are surrounded with a ten-foot fence topped by four strands of barbed wire.

His Services Appreciated.

Kewanee, Ill., Sept. 30.—In recognition of the service here by Captain Hugh Dundas in charge of the Salvation Army post, friends presented him with a round-trip ticket from Kewanee to his old home at Wilton Park, England, which he has not seen for twenty-six years and where his aged mother lives. Funds for expenses were also provided the astonished captain.

Town Development

Fifty years ago a young man walked the streets of Birmingham, England, on Saturday afternoons looking at the squalid workmen's houses and the dirty unkempt yards. "Is it any wonder," he said to himself, "that with such demoralizing living conditions, the workmen instead of coming home spend their wages drinking at the saloons?" The man was George Cadbury, now one of the proprietors of a great manufacturing company, and the town of Bournville, four miles from Birmingham, is the result of his efforts to secure good living conditions for any one who might desire an attractive home in a district so designed that there is plenty of room and fresh air for all the inhabitants.

The houses in Bournville are attractive brick structures with gardens in front and behind. The Village Trust offers prizes for the best kept garden and for the finest fruit and vegetables. With this incentive, the gardens are always neatly cultivated. There are tennis and football fields, a swimming pool and a gymnasium.

The death rate in Bournville is five per thousand, while in Birmingham, only four miles away, it is fifteen.

The Bournville boys of twelve are three inches bigger around the chest than their city neighbors in Birmingham. The enterprise was made over in 1900 by George Cadbury to a perpetual trust, which will carry out his ideas.

PLANNING RIVER TRIP FOR DATA

State Fish and Game Commissioner
Proposes to Write Article on Fishing Situation.

WILL BE USED IN NEXT REPORT

George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, is planning an extensive trip which may include many Indiana rivers, to obtain data for an article to appear in his next report on the fishing situation in Indiana. Mr. Miles said that he intended to devote the major portion of the next report to Indiana fish, whereas the report just issued deals primarily with birds of the State. The commissioner hopes to have several articles written by experienced fishermen, and his own trip down several rivers of the State will furnish much material for such dis-

sion, he believes. The department already has treated the lake fishing conditions of the State in a similar manner. Many pictures of the fish of Indiana will be taken and reproduced in colors in the next report.

MORAL STANDARD LOW, SAYS JUDGE

Court in Shelbyville Severely Arraigns Community in Granting Divorce to Minnie Rardin.

WHOSE HOME IS IN MILROY NOW

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yaw is Granted Decree, Alimony and Children's Custody.

In granting a divorce to Mrs. Minnie E. Rardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yaw of Milroy, where she is now staying, from her husband, Pliny Bartholomew, judge of the Superior court in Shelbyville, yesterday saw fit to criticize the moral standards of that city. He took occasion to remark that the sentiment in regard to moral question is low.

Judge Bartholomew, while delivering his opinion said, that Rardin was guilty of a statutory offense. The attorney for Rardin interrupted the court by explaining that his client had not admitted that he was guilty of such an act. The court informed the attorney to keep quiet and proceeded by saying that he was satisfied that Rardin was guilty and had perjured himself on the witness stand. Furthermore, he stated, he would have been prosecuted for the offense long ago the moral sentiment of the community had been right on the question. The Shelbyville Democrat says in regard to the divorce hearing.

Mrs. Rardin shed tears during the remarks of the judge and she also cried softly at times during the progress of the case. In addition to giving her the decree, Judge Bartholomew gave her $400 alimony and the custody of their three children—Raymond, 14; Mabel, 12, and George, aged 5 years. He also ordered that Mr. Rardin pay her attorney, Elmer Bassett, fifty dollars, and all costs of the action.

Judge Bartholomew also ordered Mr. Rardin to pay $8 per week for the support of the children.

Mrs. Rardin is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yaw, of Milroy, Rush county, and she and the children have been staying with her parents since the separation, which occurred in Shelbyville, June 22, 1911. They were married March 30, 1892. They also separated last April and remained apart for a short time. Mrs. Rardin filing a suit for divorce at that time, which was later dismissed on the promise of her husband that he would live with her again and treat her better, according to an allegation of Mrs. Rardin in the present complaint.

Cruelty and inhuman treatment was alleged for the divorce. She asserted that her husband had told her repeatedly he did not love her and that he had ordered her to go back to the home of her parents and stay there. She also alleged that he had been guilty of a statutory offense and that he had associated with women of bad reputation in his own home at times when Mrs. Rardin was absent.

The testimony of Mrs. Rardin and the few persons who appeared as witnesses in her behalf brought out these points very strongly and the name of Fern Armstrong appeared prominently in the case.

Mrs. Rardin had alleged that her husband had property valued at $2,500 and had asked for $1,000 alimony and $10 per week for the support of the children. When Mr. Rardin took the stand his statements indicated that he was worth only about $1,000. He explained they had bought their home here jointly in the building and loan and that less than $1,000 had been paid on it. He admitted he owned stock in a gas company in Rush county of a probable value of $250 and asserted he was earning only $12.50 per week at the Clark motor car factory. Mrs. Rardin had alleged he was earning $15 per week.

Mr. Rardin denied that he had been guilty of a statutory offense, but admitted he had told his wife he did not love her. He said he made the statement at times when he was aggravated by her jealousy as she was
